COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

KPE200H1 Physical Culture and the Human Condition

This course places the study of physical culture alongside key social scientific debates regarding the ways in which human life and the body is organized, produced, reproduced and experienced. Attention is given to how studies of physical culture provide answers to universal social scientific questions such as what it means to be human and live in a society structured by power relations that privilege some, and form the bases of injustice for others. A range of sociological, historical, philosophical, humanities, and cultural studies are used to illustrate sport and physical culture's role as mediators of core social values and conduits of dominant structuring forces in society, such as historical and political relations of colonialism, racism, classism and gender, capitalism, consumerism, technologization, rationalism and the scientization of everyday life.

Prerequisite: KPE100H1

Category: Second-year Required

Days: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday & Thursday 11 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Session: F1

KPE304H1 Violence, Suffering and Physical Culture

This course exposes students to a range of sociological, philosophical social psychological and human rights oriented theories of violence, abuse and suffering in/as physical culture. In the course, we examine not only those forms of physically, emotionally and psychologically damaging instances of interpersonal aggression commonly found in and around physical cultures, but also forms of violence and abuse implicitly connected to the production, performance and maintenance of specific physical cultures. Over the course of the semester we deconstruct manifestations of physical cultural violence in a variety of settings in Canada and elsewhere, discuss embodied experiences with violence, and abuse, examine the ubiquity and ethics of suffering in human physical cultures, question the health-related outcomes of violence in physical cultures, and inspect the ideological and institutional systems supporting the performance of violence in physical cultures.

Prerequisite: KPE100H1

Category: A

Days: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday & Thursday 2 - 5 p.m.

Session: F1
